Narayana College of Nursing aims to meet this critical challenge of preparing nurses for professional practice. At Narayana College of Nursing students are taught the principles of Caring, Excellence and Integrity, and exposed to the finest of caring and learning environment, wherein they learn, grow, and flourish in the best traditions of professional education.

With demographic changes over the coming decades expected to worsen the shortage of nurse aides in hospitals, Nursing homes, and home health care settings, there lies a tremendous demand for specialized nursing professionals. The future opens up immense opportunities and a sojourn with Narayana College of Nursing opens up immense prospects.

The set of practices that outlines the general norms, rules, and responsibilities of an individual or an organization are termed as the Code of Conduct. Essentially, these practices are an important part but not a comprehensive solution on its own, in establishing an inclusive culture. An organization's values and proper behavioral standards that accord with aforesaid values are fundamentally stated by most organizations. The purpose of the code of conduct is to define and promote crucial ethical principles important and relevant to the organization whereby identifies and disallows aspects of behavior that summons legal liability.

Principles that deem helpful for professionals to function with honesty and integrity are termed as Code of Ethics. This outlines the manner professionals are to approach the problems drawn through ethical principles on basis of core values of the organization and the professional standards that are to be adhered thereby upholding the mission of the organization. Ethical codes are meant to assist the members in comprehending right and wrong and ensuing decisions and actions. To regulate and streamline the academic profession is the core objective of the seconds
